It is evident that Europe is on the eve of great events. There are five or six powers which know not whether to set with a view to war or peace. It is true that the course of Gariealds is eagerly watched by all Europe at present. By the arrival of the Africe we learn that he had approached near Pairmo, and that an Austrian flotilia was at Natics. Insurrections are announced at Palermo and Buntavilla. The latest accounts state that Gen. Lansea had demand-d an armistice of Gakibaldi without ef-

A NARROW ESCAPE. - Last Tuesday morning, a small German girl, about three years old, was playing on the track of the Watertown and Columbus Railroad. As soon as the train came in sight she commenced running home, and a flock of sheep being between her and the locomotive, the engineer did not see her until it was too late to avoid Ler. She was caught by the cow-catcher, thrown some four feet in the air and about a red from the track on to a spot of soft ground. She was ladly braised about the head, but no brones were broken. Dr. CADY was immediately called, and rendered all necessary medical vasistance. She is now doing well

Bolting Democratic Convention adjourned which met at Chicago.

Mr. R. M. Blatchford presided over the meeting, and speechas were made by Wm. M. Evarts, Burch, of Iowa, G. W. Cartis, Hortandian, the Louisiana delegation beautiful for the continuous control of the continuous control of the control of

Wendell Phillips on Theodore Parker. At a meeting of the Anti-Slavery Society Boston, on Thursday, resolutions were introduced respecting Theodors PARKER, and WENDELL PHILLIPS made a characteristic speech, from which we make extracts:

"Another friend is gone. Not gone! No, with us, only standing one step higher than the did. To such spirits there is no death. In the old times, when men fought with spears the warrior burled his weapon into the thickest of the opposite host, and struggled bravely on until he stood over it and relating did it. In the bloom of his youth, Theodam Paley Sulvey Sure his heart forward at the dore Parker flung his heart forward at the feet of the Eternal; he has only struggled on-ward, and reached it to-day. (Profound sensation) Only one step higher! "Weep ye may full well for Scotland, Let none dure mourn for him."

How shall we group his qualities? The first that occurs to me is the tireless industry of that unresting brain, which never seemed to need leisure. I have been home many and many a time in the small hours of the morning, (my own window commands those of his study) and as I was about to prepare for reat, I looked out and saw that unquenchallist humains about my setting study to me.

ed light burning, that unresting student over at work, and, haif asbamed, I said to myself, "The trophies of Miltiades will not let me sleep?" He seemed to rebuke me even by the light that flashed from the window of the I once met him on the cars in the far West;—he was preparing an argument in behalf of the perishing classes of his own city. Neither on the jeurney nor at home did his spirit need to rest.

Why is he dead? Because he took up the burden of three men. A faithful pulpit is enough for one man. He filled it until the pregnancy of his ideas overflowed into other channels. It was not enough. His diocese extended to the prairies. On every night of the week those brave lips smothered bigotry, the week those brave lips smothered ligotry, conquered prejudice, and melted true hearts into his own on the banks of the Mississippi. That was enough for two men. But hesaid, "I will bring to this altar of Reform a costlier offering yet;" and he gathered the sheaf of all literature into his bosom, and came with another man's work, almost all the thoughts of all ages and of all tongues as the background of his influence, in behalf of the slave. He said "Left no sureficial scholarship presume. of his influence, in behalf of the slave. He said, "Let no superficial scholarship presume to arraign Reform as arrogated and empty fanaticism. I will overtop your candidates with language and law, and show you, by the spoils of all tongues, the rightfulness and inevitable necessity of justice and liberty." [Hearty applause] Enough work for three men to do, and he sunk under the burden!

Old Lyman Beecher said, "If you want to find the successor of Saul, seek him where you find the same objections made to a preacher that were made to St. Paul." Who won the hatred of the merchant princes of Bos-ton? Who did State street call a madman? The fanatic of Federal street in 1837. Who, with unerring instinct, did that same herd of merchants hate, with instinctive certainty that in order that their craft should be safe they ought to hate him? The Apostle of Music Hail. That is enough.

When some Americans die—when most Americans die—their friends tire the public with excuses. They confess this sp.t, they explain that stain, they plead circumstances as the half justification of that mistake, and they beg us to remember that nothing int. as the half justification of that mistake, and they beg us to remember that nothing but good is to be spoken of the dead. We need no such mantle for that green grave under the sky of Florence. No excuses—no explanations—no spot. Priestly malice has scanned every inch of his garment, it was seamless; it could find no stain. History, as in the case of every other of her beloved children, gathers into her bosom the arrows which malice had shot at him and says to posterity. Behold the title deeds to your gratitude! (Applause.) We ask no moment to excuse, there is nothing to explain. What the snarling journal thought bold, what the selfish politician feared as his ruin—it was God's seal set upon his apostleship. When I returned from New York on the When I returned from New York on the twelfth day of this month, I was to have been honored by standing in his desk, but illuess prevented my fulfilling the appointment. It was eleven o'clock in the morning. As he sank away the same week, under the fair sky of Italy, he said to the most loving of wives, and of nurses, "tlet me be buried where I fall;" and with tender and thoughtful duty, she selected four o'clock of that same Sunday to put all that was left of his dust into the kindred dust of brave, classic lust into the kindred dust of brave, classic Italy. Four o'clock! The same sin that looked upon the half-dozen mourners that he permitted to follow him to his grave, that same moment of brightness lighted up the arches of his own Temple; as one whom he loved stepped into his own deak, and with remarkable coincidence, for the only time remarkable coincidence, for the only time during his absence, opened one of his own sermous to supply my place; and as his friend read the Beatitude on the banks of the Arno, his dearer friend here read from his own hand-writing the text, "TRUE GOD."!

It is said that in his last hours, in the wandering of that masterly brain, he murmured "there are two Theodore Parkers—one reats here, dying, but the other lives and is at work at home." How true! at that very moment, he was speaking to his usual thousands—at that very instant his own words were floating over the hearts of those that loved him best, and bidding them, in this, the londiest hour of their bereavement, this, the loneliest hour of their bereavement,

Trust God."

Lord Bacon said in his will, "Ileave my name and memory to forsign lands, and to my own countrymen, after some time be passed." No more fitting words could he have chosen, if the modesty of the friend who has just gone before us would have permitted him to adopt them for himself. To-day, even within twenty-four hours, I have seen symptoms of that repentance which Johnson describes:

"In nations slowly wise and meanly just, To buried merit raise the bardy bast,"

Wednesday last, the 30th inst, will long be remembered in the annals of Clarion cour-ty, as forming one of its most terrible epochs. About noon on that day, a heavy black cloud was seen advancing about thirty rods south of St Charles Furnace. An awfai roaring sound accompanied it, and passing on to the farm of Mr. Shoemaker, it burst with terrible fnry, tearing his house and barn into frag-ments and breaking one of the legs of Mr. Shoemaker; the dwelling of Mr. Thomas Dougherty was next struck, and which was blown to please, the farming broken to atoms, and his daughter killed; next the house of O'Conneil Henry was blown down, and his wife seriously hurt. Cheap Fare to Baltimere.

The low fare for which persons will be taken to Baltimore, ($19,50,) via the Detroit & Milwankee Railway, should induce a large number to make the tour during the sitting of the National Democratic Convention. They will never have a better oppor-tunity offered them for visiting Baltimore, Washington and New York city even, than is now presented, and we really hope that a large number of all parties, and more particularly of democrats, will avail themselves of ther route, for those who go from this State.

Lincoln's Position Equivoral.

M. LINGEMAN, of Jefferson.

The Republication are making but little headway with a cont, who was incommend against the well-known stone of superiors for the party, and presents for these for their support, and possesses no special qualities for their highest southern in the government of a country, where of gentralay.

The Republicans are entirely satisfied with the "headway" they are making with Lincotts, and not the less so, that it is a source of evident and increasing annoyance to our Les cornie friends. Mr. Lixcoln's position is anything but "equivocal." He himself is and siways has been, an out-spoken man, of strong convictions and positive opinions. There is no teach of the demagogue, the dongh-face, or the double-dealer, in his composition. Nor did the Convention which commuted him give forth any "uncertain sound." The platform adopted at Chicago, emiodies the principles and indicates the policy, of the B-publican party. They will be the principles and policy of the LINCOLN ADMINISTRATION. We have yet to see the first Wastern paper that ventures to assail tim Equilities platform. Mr Lincoln's "special qualifications" for the Presidency are, honesty, ability, purity of character and firmness of purpose. Inas such as one or more of these "qualifications" have been lacking in the entire series of Democratic Presidents with whom the country has been afflicted, from Polk to Buchan-As, up, or down, as the reader pleases, we do not wonder that the News should make light of them. The Proper, however, apprecists such "qualifications" and think that their possessor would be a vast improvement neon the present and recent tenants of the Tita House,

What will be Done at Beilimore.

Tie Madison Argus and Democrat asks sed answers this query; and as it speaks for considerable portion of the Democratic in this State we make some extracts from its article. The Argus 2278;

From its atticle. The Argus 2898;
The elements are gathering for the Beltimore Convenion, and it has difficult for a politicism of ordinary magnety to tell what the result will be. The framework thoughtes are self-very confident. Some assect that his non-mation will certainly take place. This can hardly take place without a most violent arrugale—as arrugale like 3 to end in the disruption of the Convenion. The proposition to "mock" the Convenion with Seathern borgles men, in place of the screders, will not be likely to recoverd. The Argue concludes from these premises that Mr. Dot Glas eshnot get any more votes at Baltimore than he obtained at Charleston; but it adds that, failing in the effort to nomon foot. This is to "repeal the two-thirds of passion, or as the alternative of despair;17

The Arguer closes its article in this wise:
We seek bound here to say something, because some of we readers call in anti-Douglas. We do fot want to get by that name. We are not against any Democrat. We morely think that in view of the shield maintenant opposition to him in the States that are extended if at all—that another man will better upite becaused, if at all—that another man will better upite be factorization vote, and that there are non-who will ran as well, even in his stronghoide, as he will thinger, I have been an extended to the same that there is considered to be and differing as we do it man samp of our choicest political friends, we must man shad of our choicest political friends, we must man shad on a result is not politic, and is not decidation.

"Eron-Handed Justice."

One of the jury, in the care of the State against C. S. Marshal Lawis, for illegal voting at the late city election, sends us a brief communication which we publish elsewhere If the writer will read the article in the Sex-71821 to which he takes exception, he wil liscover that no word of consure was uttered Marsical Lewis was acquitted and John BRANKS convicted, of the offence of voting illegalty, under parallel stronmatances; the one being sent to State Prison for a year, while the other went scot free; and we maintained and still maintain, that this was not "even-We do not understand Mr. herded testine." Astres to dispute this point, and therefore deem it unnecessary to argue it further. But since the Jury sequitted Marshal Lawis, we hope that the Governor will pardon John

The Case of Marshal Lewis. For the Sentinel.

MESSES. EUTTORS:-In your issue of yeserday, in an article headed "Even Handed Justice," you take occasion to renew your former "hits" at the Jury, before which was ried Marshal Lawis, for voting in the wrong election district in our late city election. you certainly could not "hit" Mr. LEWIS. for it was not his fault that the jury brought in a verdict of "not guilty" to the charge of having "wilfully and corruptly" voted in the wrong place at that election. Neither could you "hit" the Court before which he was tried, for the Court only gave to the Jury the statute and the law governing the case. With the Jury the whole offence (if offence there was) lay, and having been one of that Jury, it is possible I may have an understanding of the case. Mr. Lawis is Democratic Marshal, while I am but an humthe subaltern in the ranks of the "sable" Republican party. Had Mr. LEWIS voted twice at that election in the same, or in two different election districts, the fact of intent would have been clearly established. His only of. ience charged, was that he voted at the wrong poll-which was admitted-and that he thus voted at the wrong poll "with wilful and corrupt' intent. If any evidence of fact or circumstance existed to establish this part of the charge, it was carefully withheld from the Jury, for not a shadow of evidence was produced to establish anything of the kind. or even approaching to it. The statute read that corrupt intent must be established, or crime cannot be maintained; for any man may commit an error—and in this case, an error of fact simply in not knowing where his voting district was. Errors in law are said not to be allowed-all are presumed to know law-a singular paradox where there are so many errors in parties, even among the experts .--The Jury was sworn to render a verdict in accordance with the law and the evidence.

Above, I have given the law and the eviience, or more steadily speaking, the entire want of all evidence, that was given to the Jury; and had any other verdict been produced, the Jury would have been justly amenable to the law for perjury, I should have been "sent up" for the longest term there not having been an extenuating circumstance in their favor, a case of true perjury and oppression for political purposes.

Yours, &c., GEORGE W. ALLEN. June 7, 1860.

The Nomination of John F. Potter. The proposition has been made to have n Republican Convention in the First District eager now to oppress the black laborer, and who crush him with the weight of their next fall, but to nominate John F. This object they are certain to accomplish unless speedily checked by a united uprising of the laborers of the Free States to prevent their triumph. It is right, say they, that capital should control, and even own, the laborer; there must be gentlemen and servants—a ruling and a servile caste. This is the true Southern doctrine, and having, except through present cirtrine, and having, except through present cir. cumstances, no special reference to black

In this view of the great question before In this view of the great question before the country, we esteem it a most fortunate circumstance that such a man as Mr. Lincoln has been selected as the standard bearer of the party whose aim is to def-nd and ennoble labor—to secure for the workman all his rights, and a due reward for his industry. It would have been difficult to have found an other man who would more completely represent in his own life, character and principles other man who would more completely represent in his own life, character and principles the exact antagonism to the Southern idea of a servile laboring class than Abraham Lincoln. In his origin, in his early life, in courage, self-respect and high aims, in his long-enduring labor, in his integrity, in his success, in his present eminent position, honeatly won by virtue of his sterling personal qualities. Perhaps not—but it may which the workers of this nation are called which the workers of the land, but especially every laborer of the land, but especially those of the Free States, and indirectly, every public-man who stands in any capacity to represent the working population of the North—for just in proportion as a constituency is degraded, will the representative of them sink in the scale, when in the presence of such an aristocracy as the slaveholding class.

Underneath the leguiling doctrine of Popular Sovereignts, by which millions now seem willing to be cheated out of every right belonging to a freeman, beneath Dred Sectidecisions and platforms, beneath all discussions of the meaning and intent of the Constitution, lies this ultimate question: Shail our laborers be permanently degraded and treated as an inferior class, to be gradually stripped of political rights, and sunk in the end to serfdom?

Death of Albert Smith.

the latest foreign news brought by the City of Bultimore, is an item recording the death at London, on the 22d inst., of Albert Smith the author, traveller and lecturer It is simply an attempt to establish in this land the old relation of Europe, the lord and the serf, and to use the prejudice against the black man as the means of effecting the object. Nothing is more certain that depends upon inevitable law, than that the permanent establishment of slavery in this country as a recognized national institution, will crush the white workman at length. They who are eager now to oppress the black laborer, and who erush him with the weight of their lay on magazine sketches and tales, reviews and dramatic versions of popular plays.

Albert Smith is principally known as a showman and a traveller to Mont Blanc. He was born at Chertsey, England, May 24th, 1816. At a very early age he manifested as marked a tendency for the panoramic and dioramic career he followed, as ever Mezart did for music. When at school he spent his time in constructing little paneramas for his schoolmates, and in taking short excursions into the country. He had a singular desire to visit Mont Bianc, and took his first jour-ney thither in the humblest style, being un-able to pay for the usual accommodations on the route. His first visit only made him de sirous to ascend to the summit of the moun-tain, and when in after life he successfully achieved the undertaking, he says that he considered one of the great objects of his life accomplished.

Mr. Smith had been for some time engaged in travelling with a panorama through the provinces, but after his successful ascent of the highest mountain in Europe he settled in London, and commenced the series of entertainments which he for so many years succonsulty conducted. His establishment was a small saloon, not much larger than Dod-worth's, in what is known as an Egyptsian a small sation, not maken larger than worth's, in what is known as an Egyptaian Hall, Piccadilly. Here, night after night, he received throngs of visitors, from royalty itself to the country farmers, who came to gape at the wonders of London. His entertain ment, "The Journey to Mount Blanc," was panoramic and descriptive. The panorama was small, and inferior to many exhibited in this country, but the vivacity of the lecturer was always the great attraction. Mr. Smith talkad to his audiences as if they were a party of friends he was entertaining in his own parlor. He told stories, cracked jokes, indulged in flashes of wit and satire, described the characters he met (and many he did not meat) on his travels, all the time talking, with such volubility that there was sourcely time to laugh at his playful sallies. scarcely time to laugh at his playful sallies. His lecture was the very opposite of the dry, stupid remarks which illustrate panoramic shows elsewhere. For the last ten years he snows elsewhere. It the arrange, two hundred crowds, on an average, two hundred and lifty nights a year to his unique entertainments. He recently added a panorama of a voyage of China to the attractions, but it did not prove as popular as the "Month Blane".

it did not prove as popular as the more Blane."

Not long ago Mr. Smith married Miss Marry Keeley, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Keeley, actors popular in England. The most enjoyable literary work he has left is his "Story of Mont Blane," giving a full account of the various attempts made to reach the top of the iterary and proporting "including a of the "monarch of mountain," including a rivid and humorous account of his accent.— N. Sudden Death of the Swans at the Central Park —On Tuesday afternoon seven of the swans at the Central Park died very suddenly, under circumstances which wery suddenly, under offcumstancs which led to the belief that they were poisoned. Three of them drooped and died early in the forenoon, and four more died at dusk. Dr. forenoon, and four more died at dusk. Dr. Buck, of the City Hospital, is engaged to-day (Wednesday) in making a post mortem examination of the dead swans, to see if he can discover any traces of poison. The birds were fed so constantly by all the visitors, that it would be an easy matter for some maliciously disposed person to poison them.—

THE BRUSSELS Journal of Medicine contains the account of another nearly fatal case of peisoning from the effects of the paint on children's toys. A child, six mouths old, was taken with convulsions, writhing with pain and uttering the most agonizing shrieks. It was with the greatest difficulty its life was saved. Examination showed that it had been poisoned from scucking a doll's head, the white lead in the paint being a most deadly poison. Reispued, Jan. 5th, 1856. Second Patent, March 4th, 1851. Patented also in Great Britain and the Unuacas, June 5th 1851.

This improvement consists in making regulating This improvement consists in making regulating valves to open with armidis increasing ratio of opening, by increasing the width of the opening mode in the valve—or by accelerating the opening motion of the ordinary valves in use—not by combining increased width of opening, with accelerated valve motion. By matent Valves and Governors are so armined as the ordinary valves in use—or by combining increased width of openina, with accelerated valve motion. By patent Valve and Governors are so arranged as trained to the piston's mptions of the resistance to the piston's mption of the resistance to the piston's mption of the resistance to the piston's motion of the resistance and from the aperture, by the nidition of equal supports of resistance, notwithstanding that the action of the governor southurably decreasing in its effects.

Therefore reverse the action of valve combined with governors as herefore used. And at this effect can be produced by many different mechanical devicts of the produced by many different mechanical devicts of the produced by many different mechanical mossed upon the public, I therefore caution and request all persons interested, to examine carefully all sileged improvements in valves or governors, to see if the application of this truth or principle. H is favorite rye; his chair back tipping, ATTORNEYS & COUNSELLORS. His meerschaum puffing; half awake and half dre OFFICE IN "LAW BUILDINGS," NO. 21 Wisconsin street, Milwaukee, Wis, 10HN W. CARY. [jyl2:515d3m] WALLACK PRATT. When "the mir'ts" heads him with maxical seemin Drew in his brain with wondrous precision, LAW AND ABSTRACT OFFICE. The following strange, astounding vision. TOHNG. TOWNSEND, ATTORNEY-AT-Saint Peter sat smoking one day at the gate Of Paradise, feeling disconsolate, Because earth's emigration, in regular flow, Went to the rival place below. That down-stairs concern, Where the wicked burn,

In the midst of wailings, and gnashings, and woe. As Peter was smoking, and puffing, and thinking, His eyes grown dozy and weighty with winking, Suddenly, through the ether of space Two forms came rushing,—as if in a race; Making such time,

As from Fiora Temple would take the shine: At a "two-forty rate" for the portals of grace, "Hallo!"—said Peter—"what's all this row; Things have come to a pretty pass, I yow ! How now, Beetzebub : tell inc. when Did you so lose respect for your aged friend As thus to come rushing,

Into our presence, without even a rap, "May it please your grace:" said Nick, very civil, Bowing low, like a well-bred devil, 'I seized this man as from earth he fell, And was taking him with me down to -

And strongly insisted On having a trial before your grace

"Tis well," said Peter." "Prisoner, your name." " Tis one not entirely unknown to fame," Baid the culprit. " "Tis Buchanan, resident Of the United States-occupation, President," "I've heard of you," drily Baid Peter, looking slyly At Buck; who stood there cautious and wily,

And read them, I must say, with inward pange. "What do you charge him with"-turning to Beelzebut Charge him! your Grave, I'm afraid the rub Would be not to charge him. General rascallty.

The latest assault on the public treasure; Is familiarly called, the Lecompton measure," Here Buck brightened up and hushed his fears, For he knew that a lapse of two or more years Had occurred since then; and he'd take the occasion

As the preacher 2271, Or you'll learn to your sorrow one of these days.

Here, suddenly up from the earth, a sprite Came rushing into the regions of light, And whispering something in Peter's ear, Flew off again—no one knows where, Then over each feature Of good Saint Peter Spread an awful frown, "You miserable knave," Baid he to Buchanan, "I would have forgave Your other crimes

On account of the universal hard times, Will bar forever the gates of this palace To you and yours. For this crime's suke consign you now to the burning lake; wwn stairs you must go. Nick, take him below-

For, in spite of the prayers of his old friend, Forney, He's made Broderick's murderer District Attorney, With a gesture proud, To Saint Peter; and said: "Take him home with me

"We're not over particular down in my home, And many rascals around us roam; But e'en in the lowest depths of hell We choose our companions, and this man-well Even Judas himself, The unhappy elf, He's not over nice, but he'd bowl like a man, and

Justly complain making friends with Buchauan, And, therefore, your Grace, The fittest place Is to let him return to earth and its duties,

He's entirely too wicked for Hades and its beauties. Here Old Buck awoke with a start, and found

His pips upset, and himself on the ground, His neckeloth swry, His bottle dry,

And a singular smell of brimstone around. Agriculture.

FARM OPERATIONS IN JUNE - Nearly all the principal crops being now sown or planted, the farmer will be oblighy employed in the working of the soil and the destruction of weeds, also in the preparation of all vacant spots for the reception of buckwheat, ruta-bagss, corn for fodder, &c. In drill crops of every kind the cultivator and plow should be freely used, the soil ameliorated and weeds torn up and destroyed.

weeds of every kind the cultivator and plow should be freely used, the soil ameliorated and weeds torn up and destroyed.

Wheat promises well in most parts of Michigan, and it is probable that it will be a remunerating crop, as the drought has affected it considerably in the Southern states, and the European harvest does not promise well. We copy an item from an exchange in which the writer edvises his brother faimers to go over their wheat fields and remove any stools of rye which appears among the crop, and as they are easily distinguished, we think it would be a good plan to do so. Wheat fields should be kept free from Dooks, Canada Thistles, &c., and even in pastures unsightly weeds of every kind should be removed. Corn is generally kept clean in the commencement of its growth, but it is often neglected at a more advanced season, and the weeds spring up which rob the soil of those ingredients which are required for bringing the grain to perfection. The land is not capable of producing, at the same time, a crop of corn, wheat or potatoes, and a crop of weeds.

In drill husbandry the soil can be stirred

T WILL MAKE TO ORDER, PAT-TERNS and Models for every variety of Machinery and Architecture, etc., etc., etc., it will also fur-nish In drill husbandry the soil can be stirred In drill husbandry the soil can be stirred frequently without damoging the plants, and this is the cause of the superiority of the drill over the broad-casting system, as by this means the crust which forms on the surface after a heavy rain can be broken up and air admitted to the roofs of the plants. We have seen newly planted broken up and air admitted to the roots of the plants. We have seen newly planted trees die because the soil around their roots became so hard that moisture or air could not penetrate it. In the management of trees, shrubs and plants of every kind the soil should be well pulverized around them.

After the experience of last year, farmers will be better prepared to set in case frost should cut down their corn and potatoes, &c. We advise our readers not to be too quick in plowing or hoeing up a crop supposed to be IS NOW FULLY PREPARED TO MAN-STEAM ENGINES, BOILERS,

We advise our readers not to be too quick in plowing or hoeing up a crop supposed to be destroyed by frost, as much damage was done by re-planting crops last year. Pumpkins failed last year, and on that account seed has been scarce this season. We advise our rural friends to sow patches of them separate from any other crop. Reapers and mowers should be put in complete order that there may be no vexations delays when the busy time cames. We have to see many trials of WISCURSIN IKON WORKS CO.

CINCINNATI MARKET, JUNE STH .- (From the Gazette

The Birtter Core Trade.—The continuance of mild weather, with a heavy fall of rain during the past week, has given a sudion hunfrance to all vegetation. The greas lands have conderfully improved—producing a fall in hay; and the wheat plants that have survived the rough winter have gready railed. Still the vacancies occasioned are further perceptible, and as no more rain is wanted for this crop, there is some danger that the straw will exceed the occasi produce. Spring corn has now every prospect of a zood yield, with a continuance of genial weather. In Scottand, however, the rain has been cold and sweeping, and graziers have too hastily turned their stock into the fields. The wheat trade, with sansit supplies, has continued looking up. Many markets have risen fully is if qc., and the week has obsed with much more firm uses than it counteneed. The stocks of good foreign still being lev, and the holders of English firm, their disposition to sell will be influenced by the weather; while the fact that we have all along maintained that last year's crop was defective, will tell its own tale as the season advances. The late rise on the continent has received a slight cheek by English solvices and the improvement in the weather. Algers and Spain, with a propilious season and advancing crops, chow cound decline in price. So, also, do France, Beigium and Holland slightly, but Germany, with smail stocks, is only exim in expectation of the reaction in the English markets. This has already commenced; and, though its Danubian ports are rather discouraged, as well as Odersa, reports of damage to the growing orogs in Southern Russia by locuxs, have imparted firmness to holders. In the American markets there has been very little olange.

The arrivals off the coast since the 10th of May were THE BRITISH CORN TRADE. The continuance of mild noticers. In the American markets there has been very little change. The arrivals off the coast since the 10th of May were forty-six cargoes, of which nine cargoes were wheat, twenty-five maize, and ten barley.

The sales noted lest week were 105,863 qrs wheat at 52s 6.1, against 9s, 305 grs. in 1559,
